THE WAY YOU DO IT.

The tariff is a very simple thing—if you understand it.

It is supposed to be some scheme of the government by which the industries of America are protected from foreign competition.

It is a Republican proposition from cellar to attic and always has been. Under tariff, so dear to the Republican orators, the manufacturers of mowing machines sell their machines in Nevada for $50 and deliver the same in South America for $25.

It about doubles the price of everything consumed in Nevada—and the Republicans say it is all right and they like it.

If the citizen of Nevada were to go into a grocery store and buy a dollars worth of sugar and some representative of the sugar trust were to meet him as he was going home with the goods and insist on another dollar being paid as the sugar trust's share of the transaction, that Nevada citizen would lay down the goods in the street and proceed to punch the nose of the man who made such a demand.

But the trust people don't fool away any time in such raw work as that. They get their dollars before it goes into the grocers hands and the grocer has to pass the charge along to the customer, who stands it and is as meek as Moses all the while.

It all depends upon how you rob a man. If you get the dollar away from him before he gets it himself this is merely Republican tariff. If you attempt to take it the other way it is highway robbery. Take it one way and the victim goes down street with a torch light procession and cheers but if you take it the other way he lets you in the nose. It don't make so much difference so long as you get the dollar away from him.

It is fun to note with what wrath an old line Republican grasps the hand of a rump silverman when he meets him on the street. The rump are the men who will be as dear to the heart of the Republicans this fall as the old liners themselves. Profiting by the example of Nixon these people all look for good places on the ticket which the Republicans will put up.

While our Republican contemporaries are trying to make out that Newlands has made a lot of money out of a California land deal they have had nothing to say regarding the various paying enterprises in which the junior senator is a silent partner.

Many carpenters arrived on Ruby Hill this week and are now at work on the several new buildings in course of construction for the Richmond Eureka company.
